SEA AND SOUND STAKES

Another Race Won at Sheepshead by Marcus Daly's Stable.

SHELLBARK TO THE FRONT

It Was a Lively Contest, but the Montana Racer Was an Easy Winner-Training for Special Dispatch to the Standard. NEW YORK, June 28.—The feature of the programme offered by the Coney Island Jockey club for its meeting at Sheepshead Bay to-day, was the Sea and Sound stakes for 3-year-olds, at one mile and a furlong. Marcus Daly's bay colt by Sir Modred out of Hirondelle, was the favorite in the betting and right gallantly did he repay the confidence put in him by the public, winning by a neck under a pull, with Walcott & Campbell's Entree second and the Morris representative, Mars, third. Ben Voiio was the pace maker for the first six furlongs, with Entree, Mars and Shellbark in a cluster behind the leader waiting on each other. When half a mile from home, Sloan, the eleveryoung jockey from the West who had the mount of Shellbark, sent the Daly colt to the front. Entree and Mars were at his beels at the head of the stretch, and in the run home they at-tempted to overhaul the leader. Shellbark, however, came on under an easy pull and won hard-held by half a length, Sioan looking over his shoulder and en-joying the battle for the place between Entree and Mars. After passing the fin-ishing lines, Shellbark and Entree went on and worked an extra half-mile in preparation for the Realization stakes which will be run on Saturday, and for which Mr. Daly's candidates, Tammany and Shellbark, are already strong favor-Shellbark pulled up fresh and good.

The Sea and Sound stakes are worth about $5,000 to the winner.

The great 3-year-old, St. Florian, owned by Messrs. John A. and A. H. Morris, has broken down.

STILL IN THE DARK.

No Late Developments in the Jordan Murder Case.

BUTTE, June 28.—The murderers of William Jordan are still at large and, as far as can be learned, the officers have made practically no progress in their search for them. Many people are indulging in criticism of the officers, justly or unjustly, and say if the case had been properly worked from the first morning the murderers could have been prevented from returning to the city and their cap ture made certain by keeping them out in the hills. It is a very easy matter to the-orize at this time, but that is not catching the murderers.

the hills. It is a very easy matter to theorize at this time, but that is not catching the murderers.

The county commissioners think the reward offered is large enough to induce some experienced detectives to attempt the hunt, and that some one should be asked to take the case while the scent is still warm. Police officers are intended more for preserving the peace, and seldom make a big reputation as detectives. The police and deputy sheriffs, however, are still working hard on the case, and every elue is run down.

It was reported to the sheriff's office last night that a man had been seen going toward Divide, and that he was carrying his arm in a sling. This morning Deputy Sheriff Creech and a companion went to Divide, but the only thing they found was a box car containing I4 tramps. The officers made the tramps get out and range themselves in line while they were searched and inspected, after which they were encouraged to keep on their way away from Butte. The latest "clue" was given out to-day and was to the effect that on the morning after the murder a track of blood was found leading up to the corner of Fark and Washington streets as far as the steps at Geoff Lavell's place and then away again and looked as though some one had stopped there to rest. The police and several depnty sheriffs put in a greater part of the day and night in continuing the search about the timbered butte, their belief being that the murderers may still be concealed about there, although every indication is that they returned to the city soon after the murder.
